

KILOWATT CRAG

This is a small, west-facing, slabby cliff south of Highway 40 near a microwave tower at the base of a prominent gully. Small edges rule and protection is a bit sparse.

Approach

Take a dirt turnoff 1.4 km southwest of Wasootch Creek to a large open area. Walk up the hill to a gravel road near the microwave tower. Turn left, walk along the road a short distance, and then go directly up to the crag — about 15 minutes from the highway.
